Security Incident at a Fuji Group Company

Fuji Corporation (“Company”) has confirmed that a system failure occurred at FUJI EUROPE CORPORATION GmbH (“FEC”), a consolidated subsidiary in Germany, on November 27, 2024 (Japan time) and that some services are currently unavailable (“the incident”). At this time, we have analyzed that it is likely that there has been unauthorized access to an FEC’s server by a third party.

We sincerely apologize for the concern and inconvenience that the incident has caused our business partners and other stakeholders.

Efforts are underway to determine the details. An internal investigation, with the assistance of external experts, is underway to determine the cause and the impact of the incident and to confirm whether any personal information and other sensitive information was compromised.

Upon recognizing the incident, we immediately reported it to the relevant authorities and implemented emergency measures such as restricting external access. In order to minimize the impact of the incident, FEC is currently working to set up an alternative system and restore operations.

Note: Fuji and Fuji group companies other than FEC have not been affected by this incident.

We are continuing our investigation to gather information and determine the exact scope of the impact, and we will provide updates on any new material findings that become available.
